TALK TO ME

Rape is the most underreported crime in America. One in six victims of sexual assault is under the age of twelve. Preteen and teen victims are often silenced by fear, shame, guilt, and threats of reprisal. Five young women speak directly about their painful experiences of sexual violence.

The World Health Organization in 2012 reported that the risk of violence and abuse is higher for children with disabilities than it is for those without disabilities.
