DCMP Supports Communication Access

Additional Sign Language Titles

I Want to Learn Sign Language! Vol. 1

Family Sign Language and Informational Video Series (1—4)

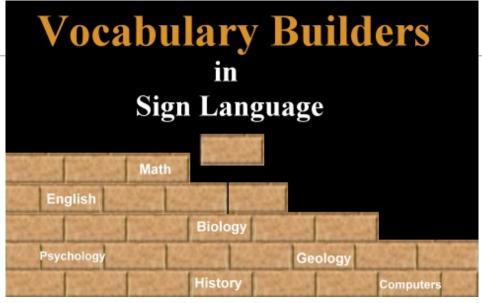

American Sign Language Video Dictionary and Inflection Guide

Signs of Communication: Development for Babies

A Language for Ben

Vocabulary Builders Titles:

- Science
- Computers
- English
- Math
- Psychology
- American
 History/
 Government

DCMP is a leader in providing access to captioned, educational media. But did you know that we also offer many resources to promote access through sign language as well? There are over 100 titles in the DCMP collection on sign language.

DCMP, in conjunction with Jacksonville State University in Alabama, produced a series of sign language vocabulary videos called: Vocabulary Builders in Sign Language. The videos are intended to introduce sign language that is specific to a particular class or subject matter, utilizing deaf professionals signing vocabulary related to their field of expertise.

We noticed a need among sign language users for educational vocabulary. Many interpreters, teachers, and students are unfamiliar with specialized sign vocabulary because the concepts occur infrequently in daily communication.

This comment was recently posted by a viewer of one of the videos: "I'm an interpreter and for someone who has always been weak in the subject area, this video was extremely helpful. Thanks for posting!"

Don't miss this opportunity to increase your sign language skills! View our vocabulary builders on YouTube, iTunes U, and through the DCMP collection.

Access this series in 3 ways:

on iTunes

Choose Disability Support Services from the "Main Menu"

The iTunes program is needed to access these. It's a free download.

Described and Captioned Media Program

Free-Loan Accessible Educational Media • www.dcmp.org

The DCMP is funded by the U.S. Department of Education and administered by the National Association of the Deaf.