Sometimes it happens,
You're bored and
there's nothing to do.

Take a trip outside,
You may find your own zoo!

Sometimes it happens,
You hear noises outside.

Three squirrels playing,
then they run and hide.

Sometimes it happens,
You look out on your lawn.

You find two ducks
Where they don't belong.

Sometimes it happens,
When you're outside,

You may see a beautiful
butterfly pass by.

Sometimes it happens,
You're exploring around,

Look! There's a hummingbird that you've found!

Sometimes it happens,
You have to look quick.

A dragonfly passes
and lands on a stick.

Sometimes
it happens,

You look up
in a tree,

A bird nest with baby crows times three.

Sometimes it happens,
You look up the wall.

Wow! It's a lizard
all stretched out tall.

Sometimes it happens,
You sit under a tree.

You will be amazed
at what you can see.

Sometimes it happens,
You are now aware.

It's time to go back inside
and draw pictures to share.

Sometimes it happens,
You lie in bed at night.

What's that sound?
Frogs croaking,
but they're out of sight.

Sometimes it happens,
You look out at the moon.

What do you see?
A big racoon!

Sometimes it happens,
You're not bored anymore.

Time passes by.
There was sooo much to explore!

So next time it happens,
You're bored with nothing to do.

Remember
these ideas,
And they'll be fun too!

About the Author

Annette Blake's first book was created when she was an ABA therapist. She was asked by a parent to write a book about someone dying, because her son had just lost one of his friends at age 6. That is how Sometimes It Happens began.

She has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology from California State University in Long Beach and an Education in Early Childhood certification from Orange Coast College. Annette has been working with young children for over 30 years. Her many experiences have led her to the goal of her books: to create simple ways for kids to cope with difficult life situations.

She lives in Huntington Beach, California where she enjoys spending time with her boyfriend Mike, family and friends. She enjoys boating, gardening and going to the beach. Her favorite hobby is teaching her students.
